FLAMES AFTER CRASH OF WALL

SHOPPERS MEET INSTANT DEATH

Department Store Wrecked When Adjoining Building Falls.

MANY PERSONS BURIED ALIVE

Flames Leap From the Ruins and Baffle the Bands of Rescuers—Believed All Persons Caught in the Crash Are Dead—Victims Chiefly Women and Children—Adjoining Building Also Wrecked.

McKinney, Tex., Jan. 24.—Eight persons were killed and 15 seriously injured when walls of a building occupied by a farming implement firm fell and crashed into the three-story Odd Fellows' temple, two floors of which were occupied by the Cheeves department store, causing that building to collapse.

Fire, which broke out immediately after the collapse, is believed to have burned to death a number of persons who would have been rescued.

At least 50 persons were shopping in the department store when the walls caved in without a moment's warning. The crowd of shoppers in

ENORMOUS FRAUDS BARED

Illegal Trafficking in Large Cities in Stolen Postage Stamps.

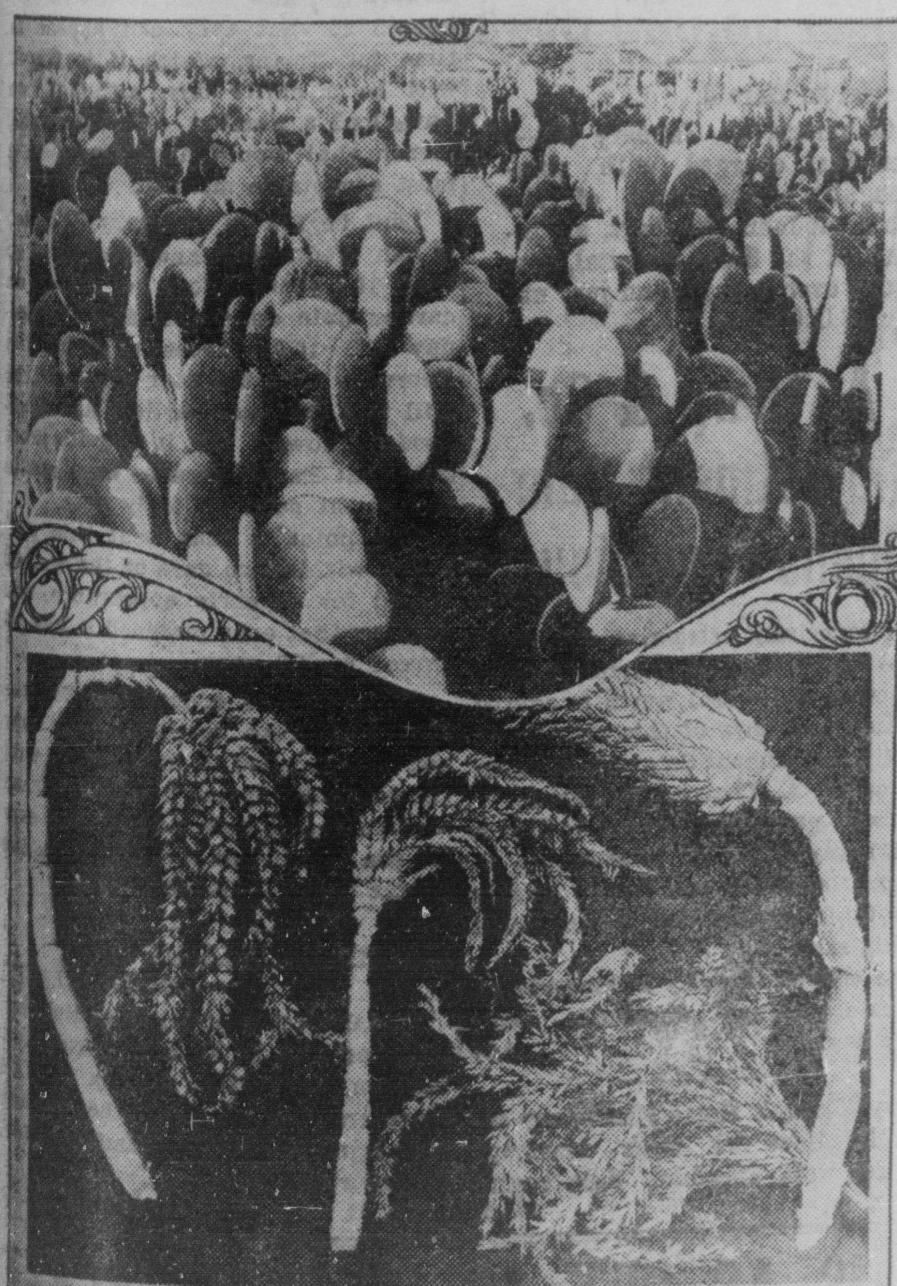

Washington, Jan. 24.—Enormous frauds against the government through illegal trafficking in stolen postage stamps have been unearthed by postoffice inspectors.

Reports received by Postmaster General Hitchcock show that the frauds have been conducted on so tremendous a scale that they involve at least $2,000,000 annually.

Indictments already have been re-

Spineless Cactus and Cobless Corn, Luther Burbank's Latest

SPIKELESS cactus and cobless corn—truly they are appropriate to the age of wireless telegraphy and stepless electric cars. No one can deny that Luther Burbank, the "plant wizard," indeed ranks with Marconi, Edison, Tesla and the rest of our twentieth century magicians. Burbank did a big thing for our friends, the animals, when he brought safety out of confusion in cactus cultivation. Shorn of their dangerous spines, the cactus is a fine nourishing fodder, capable of being produced fifty to a hundred tons to the acre and outrivalling that most nutritious and prolific of hay crops, alfalfa. In the same wonderful way he obtained his corn without cobs. Perhaps he unwittingly hit a solar plexus blow at the corneob pipe monopoly, but what of that? He at least dealt a deathblow to the bane of every diner's existence.

ENTERTAINS HOPE OF RESULTS NOW BENEFITTING ALL

HANDS IN UNIFORM TEXTBOOK BILL

Senator Hudson Takes Advantage Of Nen Anti-Lobby Act.

APPLIES TO VILLAGE SCHOOLS

Drastic Municipal Ownership Proposition Introduced by Representative Bigelow of Hamilton County—Militia Probe Measure Passes Both Wings of the Assembly—Screen Bill Hearing Next Week.

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—Under the protective wings of the new anti-lobby act, Senator J. I. Hudson of Scioto county feels hopeful that he will be able to secure the passage of a uniform textbook bill, which he has introduced. The bill would have all textbooks used in rural and village schools, where a third grade school is maintained, selected by a commission composed of the superintendent of public instruction and three citizens selected by the governor, one of whom must be a township superintendent, one a primary teacher and the other a county examiner. All are required to hold state life certificates.

Contracts for furnishing the books are to be let by the commission on competitive bids for five years. The company receiving the contract must give a bond to the state for $50,000. When the commission deems it advisable manuscripts may be purchased and the printing of the books done by the state. A similar bill was introduced in the house by Mr. Thomas of Wood county.

Merits and demerits of the screen bill will be presented by members of the miners' union and mine operators and owners to the senate committee on labor, at a public hearing in the senate chamber Wednesday night. If a man neglects his wife for five minutes she may get a divorce, is the provision of a bill by Mr. Kessler of Adams. The bill takes out the time limitations from gross neglect and habitual drunkenness as causes for divorce.

Bigelow's Proposition.

A drastic municipal ownership bill to the effect that municipalities, in acquiring public utilities, shall pay nothing for franchise value but shall pay only the physical value of the plant, was introduced in the Ohio house by Representative Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati. Prior to his presenting the bill, George W. Warington and other representatives of the Cincinnati Traction company told the house judiciary committee that the city of Cincinnati would gain nothing but a lawsuit, which it would lose, if the legislature passed the Bigelow bill abrogating the 50-year franchise of that company.

The senate unanimously adopted the house joint resolution congratulating the people of Ireland and the English parliament on the passage of the Irish home rule bill by the house of commons. The resolution was introduced by Representative Carroll of Columbus.

By a vote of 81 to 24, the house passed the bill by Smith of Butler, authorizing municipalities to cut obnoxious weeds on vacant lots when the owners refuse to do so and charge the cost as taxes against the property. Representative Bigelow of Cincinnati sought to prevent the passage of the bill on the ground that it was interfering with home rule.

Representative Reppert of Hamilton county introduced a bill providing that all food products placed in cold storage shall be stamped permanently showing the date they are received. No such foods shall be kept in such storage more than 10 months, except that butter may be kept in 12 months. No food, once taken from storage, may be again placed in storage.

Will Probe Militia Expenses.

The house adopted the Gregory senate resolution for an investigation of the increasing expenses of the Na-

HEAD OF THE STEEL COMBINE TELLS ALL

UPHOLDS CONTENTION OF THE GOVERNMENT

Corey Tells More of Inside Workings of Steel Companies.

New York, Jan. 24.—William Ellis Corey, former president of the United States Steel corporation, told at the hearing here more of the inside workings of the big corporation and of the Carnegie company. During the course of his examination Mr. Corey confirmed the government contention:

First. That as the outcome of the famous Gary dinners subcommittees were appointed for each branch of the iron and steel industry, consisting of steel trust and independent manufacturers, which subcommittees came to an understanding as to output and prices.

Second. That the armor plate manufacturers of the world had another such understanding, as did the international steel rail manufacturers as to the share of each country in a neutral market.

Third. That the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, before its acquisition by the United States Steel corporation, was a very lively competitor with a decided advantage because of its open hearth furnaces for steel rails.

Mr. Corey established, with the assistance of Judge Dickinson, that he was pretty much of an insurgent in the United States Steel corporation from the start. He appeared to be on record against about everything advocated by E. H. Gary and the Frick interests, so-called. He seemed to be in favor of an open competitive market and the survival of the fittest to prevail.

Old Time Leader Is Busy Once More

AGUINALDO IN ACTION

Holds Frequent Conferences With Revolutionary Committees.

Manila, Jan. 24.—Aguinaldo, the famous leader of the revolt against the Americans in the Philippines, has re-entered politics. He has had frequent conferences with the Filipinos' revolutionary committee of chieftains. It is believed the activity of Aguinaldo is an outgrowth of the fear that the Jones bill providing for Philippine independence may fail of passage. His activity is believed to be promoted by a desire to forestall control of the anticipated discontent among the Filipinos because of the non-fulfillment of the promises of politicians.

Secretary of Interior Under Fire Over Indian Oil Leases.

Walter I. Fisher, secretary of the interior, took the witness stand before the house committee on Indian affairs and defended his action in removing from office Chief Bacon Rind and other members of the council of the Osage Indians. He also defended his action in rejecting the lease of 200,000 acres of the Osage oil and gas lands to the Uncle Sam Oil company because he did not think the leases made the best bargains possible for the Indians. Judge Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia upheld Fisher's action.

Popular Uprising Forces Resignation of the Cabinet.

Constantinople, Jan. 24.—Nazim Pasha, present commander-in-chief of the Turkish army, was assassinated here last night, during a demonstration on the streets by Young Turks.

Constantinople, Jan. 24.—A crisis in Turkish affairs came with dramatic suddenness. ## REPLY NOTE IS MADE PUBLIC

KNOX ON PANAMA CANAL DISPUTE

Holds British Have No Ground For Seeking Arbitration.

SUGGESTION HELD PREMATURE

Secretary of State Proposes That All Facts in the Case Be Referred For Investigation and Report to a Joint High Commission of Inquiry—Note Submitted to British Parliament by Sir Edward Grey.

Washington Jan. 24.—The reply of the United States to the British note of protest against the Panama canal act was made public by Secretary Knox, simultaneously with the transmission of the note to the British parliament by Sir Edward Grey, minister for foreign affairs.

The note states at the outset that the United States government disagrees with the British interpretation of the Clayton-Bulwer and the Hay-Pauncefort treaties, but discussion of this important phase of the controversy is reserved by Secretary Knox for another occasion. With respect to Sir Edward Grey's suggestion that the Panama dispute be submitted to arbitration, if the canal act be not repealed, Secretary Knox holds that such a proposal is premature. Mr. Knox bases this view on the ground that Great Britain complains only of something that possibly may happen, and also that arbitration should not be resorted to until the two governments have failed to settle by diplomatic negotiation any matter of dispute between them.

The most interesting feature of Mr. Knox's note, however, is his proposal that all facts in the case which may continue to be the cause of a difference of opinion between the two governments be referred for investigation and report to a joint high commission of inquiry, such as was provided for in the recent general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which was ratified by the United States senate in a hopelessly mutilated condition.

Obviously Mr. Knox believes that an investigation of this character will result in convincing Great Britain that she has no ground for seeking arbitration. Secretary Knox's present proposition is designed, therefore, to clear the air or at least narrow down the points at issue.

State department officials believe that Secretary Knox's offer will demonstrate the sincerity and good faith of the United States, even though this government holds that suggestions of arbitration are at this time premature.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The state prison department was notified that James Roberts, a West Indian, confined in the death row at Sing Sing prison and sentenced to be electrocuted Feb. 10, was dead. # CHURCH OF CHRIST EDIFICE TOO SMALL NEW ONE PLANNED Congregation, at Business Meeting Last Night, Decides to Build Handsome New Church.

OLD STRUCTURE ERECTED IN THE YEAR OF 1884

Committee Appointed to Submit
Plans, and Coming Summer
May See New Building Well
Under Way, and Cost Will Probably Be About $20,000.

At the annual business meeting of the congregation of the Church of Christ, Thursday night, it was decided to erect a new church, and a committee was appointed to submit plans for a new building.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, consisting of Messrs Robert Wilson, S. E. Ervin and Geo. Perry, the board unanimously agreed that a new edifice was badly needed, and their decision was submitted to the congregation for ratification, and at the meeting Thursday night the vote was almost unanimously in favor of a new place of worship.

John Vangundy and George Perry were appointed to investigate the project thoroughly, and to submit plans for a building, together with the approximate cost, within a short time, and then definite action will be taken, and as soon as arrangements can be made the work will be started.

The present structure, which stands on the south-east corner of the Temple-North Street intersection, was erected in 1884, and is constructed of brick. It is 50 by 80 feet and with the steadily increasing membership and attendance, has proven inadequate. The Sunday school rooms have proven too small, and the membership is said to have outgrown the size of the church.

A brick structure costing some $20,000 or possibly more, will probably take the place of the present building, and will probably be erected on the same site, although this question will come up for final settlement at a later date.

Preparing For Early Easter

Florists, milliners and women who enjoy finery and display are not pleased because Easter Sunday this year comes March 23, which is the earliest Easter since 1856. Lilies, azaleas, hyacinths, tulips and other flowers are now being forced in hot-houses so that they can appear in time for Easter, which it is feared will be a chilly day, although we have had a number of days this month that would have served in a most acceptable manner.

Lent begins on February 5, which is Ash Wednesday, and one has to go back 101 years before he reaches an earlier date on which Ash Wednesday fell. If he chooses to go back to February 3, in the year 387 A. D., he will find the very earliest Ash Wednesday known. But it is quite probable that Easter parades were not in fashion at such an early date.

The point is that Lent this year comes within two days of the world's record for an early appearance, and nothing that even matched it has occurred for 57 years.

There is one consolation for the men who have families—they may not be compelled to come across with the price of a spring bonnet. Instead earlaps and tippets may be necessary for the comfort of the women on the Easter parade.—Boston Globe.

Sewer Was Filled With Fine Roots

A drain pipe from the court house having become worthless, men were put to work taking it up this week, and a trench from the court house to Main street sidewalk near the west entrance to the court house was made and the sewer removed.

It was found that small roots of the trees had penetrated small openings at the sewer joints, and that several sections of the sewer were packed tight with the fibrous roots, so that drainage was utterly impossible.

The old sewer was removed and a cast-iron pipe with soldered connections laid, making it absolutely water tight, and incidentally, root tight.

Jury Disagrees In Damage Case

After considering the case of Lydia Estel against Louis Stolzenburg from ten o'clock Thursday forenoon until nearly five in the afternoon, the jury disagreed and Judge Carpenter dismissed them from further consideration of the case.

It is understood that nine of the twelve jurors stood in favor of the defendant, and the other three favored giving the plaintiff damages amounting to about $25.

The plaintiff sued for $1,000 damages for injuries inflicted by a dog owned by the defendant.

Gregg & Gregg were attorneys for the plaintiff and Rankin & Rankin, attorneys for the defendant.

A War on Wild Pigeons. A great slaughter of wild pigeons took place all over the Isle of Wight and it was estimated that quite a thousand guns were enrolled for the campaign, among them being landowners, occupiers and shooting tenants who were publicly invited to take part. The farmers have suffered terribly owing to the depredation caused by the wild pigeons.—London Evening Standard.

MATERIAL ON HAND FOR NEW BURKE BLOCK

Most of the material for the new Burke block on the corner of Fayette and East streets is on the grounds, and just as soon as the weather permits and workmen can be secured, work will be started on the building, and it will be completed by early spring, or if the weather remains mild, before spring.

The original plans have been changed, and the building, in addition to occupying the corner lot, will contain two business rooms on the first floor, and the same size rooms on the second floor, and will front 40 feet on Fayette street and be 60 feet in depth.

Brick will be used for constructing the south wall and front, and concrete blocks for the north wall.

The Burke Granite Works will occupy the corner rooms and the other rooms will be for rent.

Work on the concrete foundation will be started within a few days, and when the building is finished it will add greatly to the appearance of the corner.

A new building will probably be erected across the street in the spring, and South Fayette street will be on the boom.

Changes Made At Y. M. C. A. Building

Some radical changes have been made at the Y. M. C. A. building, which will probably make the lobby more popular in future, as it eliminates the noise and confusion made heretofore by the boys in their enthusiasm over cue roque.

The cue roque tables have been removed from the lobby and placed in the large game room in the basement, where there is more room and better facilities for enjoyment.

This leaves the lobby free from noise and confusion, and an ideal place for those who wish to read, play checkers or chess, or chat.

The south side of the lobby is now being attractively arranged, and tables, chairs, potted plants, and pictures will transform it into a quarters cozy and inviting. A hat rack will also be placed in the room.

The game room will be open from three o'clock each day, and during the evening, during which time it will be under the supervision of assistant secretary, Ralph Strobel. This will leave the lobby comparatively free from juniors.

In the lobby will hang the picture of Lincoln and His Cabinet, donated to the association by the late R. A. Robinson, and also pictures given by Mr. Chas. Stimson and the University of Chicago.

Those interested in decorating the rooms are now trying to secure a set of moose or deer antlers to hang over the mantelpiece, but so far have been unable to secure a set.

The ever increasing attendance at the Y. M. C. A. has been taxing the amusement features to capacity.

EFFECTS OF INTENSE LIGHT.

Retinal Fatigue Depends on the Amount Received.

It is not so much the intensity of the light focused on the retina as it is the quantity received by that sensitive organ that causes retinal fatigue or worse. In the great snow fields of the arctic regions the natives protect their eyes from the glare of the snow by goggles made of hollowed pieces of wood in which they have made small holes to look through. This, says the "Optical Review," reduces the quantity of the light which passes into their eyes with consequent relief from the glare.

So, too, if we look through a minute pinhole disc at the sun we can endure the very bright light much longer than when we look with the naked eyes. If we look at a distant electric arc light there is no retinal fatigue.

While if we look at the same light from a short distance there is great discomfort, and yet the two retinal images are of equal brilliancy, only in the first case this image is very much smaller than in the second case; that is the quantity of light is very much different.

Then there is the flaming electric light which is now to be found in all of the large cities of the country. This light is much less brilliant than that of the arc light, and yet its size is so great that this more than makes up the difference, and it is therefore very glaring and uncomfortable to look at. In skiascopy it is possible to use a very intense light if it is made small in area, and for the reasons above stated.

HELEN GOULD'S WEDDING.

With that genuine simplicity which, after all, is the most impressive ceremony, because it conveys the assurance that the proceeding is not one for display and of form only, Helen Miller Gould and Finley J. Shepherd were married Wednesday at Miss Gould's home.

Although the bride's personal fortune is calculated by the tens of millions and her donations to charity run into the millions, her whole life has been one which has been characterized by that dignified simplicity which goes hand in hand with real worth.

Miss Gould could have gone abroad and bought a title—the empty shell of decaying form—with a no account man thrown in for a husband, but she choose a real American man who has fought his way to the top in railroad circles by his own ability and energy.

The ceremony was magnificent in its simplicity and made more deserved the title of Miss Gould as the idol of the democracy.

How much more wisely Miss Gould has chosen than some of her American sisters who have been attracted by the empty bauble of a decadent European aristocracy each passing day will tell.

It is to be hoped that the splendid example set by Miss Gould and the hearty approval with which the American people have stamped it; the increased glory and love which the American people accord Miss Gould on account of her course, will be a potent factor in breaking up those foolish international marriages which are at best nothing but form and vulgar display, and almost without exception result in broken hearts and divided households.

Loyal patriotic Americans, one and all wish the newly married couple long life, abundant prosperity and unalloyed happiness.

GOULD AND SHOULD BE CHANGED.

The long continued spell of wet weather has again brought to the people of Washington, full realization of the frightful condition of the streets and crossings near the Union depot.

Residents of Washington might endure, although it is a severe strain on their love for home city, the wretched mud hole which must be navigated to get to and from the trains arriving at the depot, but the abuse which the traveling public heaps upon a city which will permit such a condition of affairs to exist brings the blush of shame surging to the cheeks of every man and woman who calls this city home.

The physical discomforts are bad enough, the humiliation it carries is worse and the damage to the city's good name in the estimation of the strangers who carry reports to the outside world is almost incalculable.

When it is known that the whole trouble could be eradicated by legislative action of the City Council and that we are not by any means at the mercy of the railroads, the pity and the shame of it all are intensified a hundred fold.

A city with eight thousand inhabitants—a live, hustling population, a city which is recognized as a prosperous city striving to increase its prestige and its trade, bidding in competition with other wide-awake cities and towns for the business and the dollars of the world outside, is fearfully handicapped by such an awful gate-way through which the strangers must come and go.

They arrive in the business district with a bad impression of our city and its people, and they leave with that abominable hole of mud and filth which lies in front of the depot as the last departing impression of a city with the people of which they came to deal.

The condition of the street at the Union depot is indeed a sad but indisputable proof of municipal incompetency which cannot be explained away or softened in the least and the hurt to Washington is far more serious than those who could but refuse to better the conditions, think possible.

Every citizen who wants Washington to grow, to improve and to prosper, should walk down to the depot on a rainy, bad day and view the conditions there. If the sight at that point doesn't make his fighting blood boil then he is not one of the men who has helped to put Washington on the map.

It is a bad condition which can easily be remedied and there is positively no excuse for inaction.

Standards Must Be Set
Before All Food Is Pure

By Dr. CARL L. ALSBERG, Government Chief Chemist

I BELIEVE that most manufacturers and handlers of foodstuffs want to do the right thing, but most of them DON'T KNOW EXACTLY WHAT IS THE RIGHT THING.

The whole subject of food inspection and the demand for pure foods is new. When the bureau of chemistry was established there were no standards, no guides of any sort. Everything had to be worked out, and it has been slow work. Only a few things definitely have been determined for this analysis of foods. To establish standards is not the work of days, BUT OF YEARS.

WHEN WE ARRIVE AT WHAT IS THE STANDARD THEN WE MUST SHOW THE MANUFACTURER HOW TO BRING HIS PRODUCTS UP TO THE STANDARD.

ENVY.

My teacher says that I'm the best And smartest boy in school. I'm never careless, like the rest; I never break a rule. If visitors should come to call, She has me speak a piece, Or tell what makes an apple fall, Or bound the coast of Greece.

You might expect that, since my brain Holds such an awful lot.

I'd be extremely proud and vain— But oh, indeed I'm not.

For Willie Brown's a cleverer lad Than I can hope to be.

why, I'd give anything I had To be as smart as he.

He can't recite, "Hark; hark, the lark;"

He's not the teacher's pet;" He never gets a perfect mark

In 'rithmetic—and yet,

Could I be he, I'd waste no tears On foolish things like sums:

For Willie Brown can wag his ears And dislocate this thumbs.

FOR DELICATE CHILDREN.

A Mother's Letter to Mothers.

Mrs. E. W. Cooper, of Bloomfield, N. J., says: "My child, seven years old, had a bad cold and was weak and quite run down in health. She had been in this condition for about six weeks when I began giving her Vinol. It was a wonderful help to the child, breaking up her cold quickly and building up her strength besides. I have also found Vinol a most excellent tonic for keeping up the children's strength during a siege of whooping cough."

Vinol is a wonderful combination of two world-famed tonics—the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil and iron for the blood, therefore it is a perfectly safe medicine for children, because it is not a patent medicine, everything in it is printed on every package, so mothers may know what they are giving their little ones.

Therefore we ask every mother of a weak, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our guarantee. Blackmer & Tanquary, Drugists, Washington C. H., Ohio.

AMUNDSEN WILL EXPLORE ARCTIC

South Pole Discoverer to Make Trip In 1914.

TO USE WIRELESS OUTFIT.

Will Not Go to the Pole, Says Famous Voyager, but Will Confine Efforts to Scientific Research—The Fram to Be Used Again.

New York.—Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, whom the United States formally recognized as the discoverer of the south pole at a dinner given in his honor by the National Geographic society at Washington, has made public the tentative plan of his contemplated cruise in arctic waters in 1914.

"I will leave San Francisco in June, 1914," Captain Amundsen declared, "and will proceed to Alaska and on up through the Bering sea. The Fram, the vessel in which I sailed into the antarctic before making the last dash to the pole, is now at Buenos Aires undergoing repairs and a thorough overhauling. She will proceed to San Francisco, where I will board her.

"It is my intention to endeavor to sail up the Alaskan coast into the Arctic ocean and through the Northwest passage to Greenland, the reverse of my previous trip in the Gjoa."

Captain Amundsen said he had no idea what he might find on the voyage. There might be an extensive archipelago in his path, he said, and then there might not be.

"I really have no idea what I will encounter," he said. "That is why I am going to make the trip."

The next six months, he added, he would spend in an extensive lecture tour of the United States and Canada. In July he intends to return to his home in Norway, where he will stay until the time for his cruise in the Arctic ocean arrives.

"I will have from twelve to fourteen men with me," the explorer said. "They will be practically the same men who accompanied me to the south pole. At present they are in Norway, studying and preparing themselves for the next voyage."

Asked if he expected to run across any of the blond Eskimos reported by Stefansson, Captain Amundsen smiled and said it was not likely.

"I have never seen any in my trips in the Arctic," he said. "But I would hardly care to express an opinion as to their existence. Mr. Stefansson I know to be a very reliable man, and I place great credit in his statements. The purposes of my voyage are purely scientific. Little is known of the vast region north of the continent, and any data we may obtain will be extremely valuable.

"It is likely that I will have a wireless apparatus on the Fram on this trip, although that is still an open question. It would doubtless assist greatly in making observations, for through the aid of stations which it is proposed be established in northern Alaska, Spitzbergen and points in Greenland, comparisons of the climatic conditions that could thus be made would be extremely useful.

"I do not intend to go to the north pole. What would be the interest? It has been discovered, man has been there and there would be no incentive. We shall confine ourselves to purely scientific studies of the currents and lands with which we may come in contact."

Since his last visit to this country, made prior to his successful trip to the south pole, Captain Amundsen has removed his mustache and beard.

"It is necessary to be smooth shaven in the cold regions," he said. "Contrary to the general belief that a beard warms the face, it is a great hindrance. Icicles form and a beard becomes a source of great pain and annoyance.

"The mean annual temperature at the south pole," he added, "is 15 degrees below zero, F. The warmest it ever gets there is 30 degrees, and I have known the mercury to descend to 75 degrees below zero. One never has a chance to stand around and freeze, however, for there is always a vast amount of work to be done. At times when we were snowbound we worked at perfecting our apparatus, and time never dragged."

By his invitation, Senator Charles J. Howard of Belmont, Republican leader in the senate, and Representative Charles A. Reid of Fayette, Republican leader in the house, met with the governor and the Democratic presiding officers of the house and senate and Representative Robert Black of Hamilton, to consider the bill of the latter providing for the establishment of a legislative research department at the Ohio State university. The conference was a harmonious one, and the Republican legislators assured the governor that the members of their party would give him the fullest co-operation in his desire to secure the enactment of measures that are for the welfare of the public.

Representative Cooper of Youngstown introduced a bill to strengthen the law against the white slave traffic. It was drawn at the suggestion of Former Prosecutor John A. Cline of Cuyahoga county, who found that his greatest obstacle in the enforcement of the law was the provision that the woman must be used in the traffic against her will. It was often found difficult to prove that Mr. Cooper's amendment would take that out.

Awakens the Conscience.

Miss Kamerer spent a month in each of the following cities: Circleville, Painesville, Sandusky, Urbana, Bowling Green and Conneaut. She is now engaged in similar work in other cities.

Miss Kamerer was employed, primarily, to awaken the public conscience in the cities which she visited. It was, and is, her task to point out to the contented and comfortable townspeople living in the big houses on the wide streets that even in the smallest cities there are vile hovels where filth and disease and overcrowding rage as wantonly as in the large cities.

Her month in each city is spent organizing the public officials, the ministers, physicians and teachers, and in enlisting the support of the local newspapers. She then gets busy and makes a general survey of the city, studying the character of the citizens, the conditions under which the factory workers labor; whether the streets and alleys are kept clean; the water supply and the sewerage system—every condition, in fact, which influences the general health of the people. In one city, for instance, she found that 180 pigs were kept within the city limits.

Points Out Bad Spots.

In the meantime she has been enlisting the support of influential citizens. When she is thoroughly familiar with local conditions, and has definitely determined the bad spots, a public meeting is called. There she points out the unhealthful conditions and suggests a remedy.

In every city she visited her suggestions have borne definite fruit. In Circleville, for instance, a permanent nurse was secured to take up the work where she left off. In Bowling Green a "Health League" was organized, and in the other cities similar steps have been taken.

In addition to this Miss Kamerer in each city visited from 100 to 200 homes in which there was sickness—typhoid, pneumonia, tuberculosis and other diseases. She made expert suggestions that were uniformly helpful.

A bill to extend the work of district nurses will have the support of almost all philanthropic societies. It is a field of social service which offers great opportunities in Ohio.

DO YOU KNOW THESE THINGS, GENTLE READER?

The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has issued the following brief bulletin which is worthy of general attention:

Do you know, that one death out of every 10 in Ohio is due to tuberculosis?

Do you know, that tuberculosis can be prevented?

Do you know, that tuberculosis is due to a germ that can be destroyed?

Do you know, that the germs causing tuberculosis are communicable?

Do you know, that the germ of tuberculosis flourishes in darkness and filth?

Do you know, that it is a common occurrence for persons to have tuberculosis and not know it?

ASK ONE IN EACH COUNTY

Ohio Society For Prevention of Tuberculosis, Which Employed First Nurse to Visit Smaller Ohio Cities, Will Ask Legislature to Provide Visitor in Each County to Carry On the Work.

Interesting experiences are recorded by Miss Margaret Kamerer of Cleveland, the first district nurse employed in the campaign of intensive education on health matters inaugurated by the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a report to the society covering the first six months' work.

The report is of particular interest at this time, as the Anti-Tuberculosis society and other similar organizations are advocating the passage of a bill to employ district nurses in every county in the state, to visit all cases of tuberculosis.

At present employment of such nurses, with the exception of Miss Kamerer, is confined to a few of the large cities of the state. It is believed that the work accomplished by her has proven so effective that the advisability of extending the work to the smaller counties has been established beyond all doubt.

STRIKING TIME OF CLOCKS.

Not Always Set for the Hour—Reason for the Variations.

It is hard to have a number of clocks strike together, according to Ernest H. Guenther of Pittsburgh, who is interested in the manufacture of timepieces.

"You see," he said, "some clocks are arranged to strike half a minute before the hour, some a quarter of a minute before, others a few seconds after and so on. Now, if I regulate them to strike at the same instant they will not be in agreement in point of actual time, and that is really a more important consideration."

"Of course if there are a great many clocks in the house it is likely that several will happen to strike together. For instance there is one house which has twenty clocks and one of our men looks after them. Of these, five or six strike in unison and the others all within a minute, excepting one. He has orders to keep nineteen of the clocks at exactly the correct time, but the little jeweled timepiece in the bedroom of the mistress of the house is to be kept always three minutes fast."

"No, he does not get rich at the business of winding clocks and seeing that they keep time, but he makes a fair living at it. The house I just spoke of is an especially profitable house of course, having so many clocks. They pay him $100 a year for his attendance which is given weekly."

Some Animals' Tails.

The tails of animals are not necessary for adornment only. Horses, cows and many other creatures use their tails as fly flappers. Cats, squirrels and such like frequently twist them about their necks for comfort.

The rat has raised the use of the tail to a fine art, for he finds it an invaluable asset in stealing jelly, oil or cream out of jars or bottles whose contents cannot be reached otherwise. The macaque plays as merrily with its tail as does a kitten, and it is said that the marmoset uses its tail as a blanket while sleeping. Every one has heard how monkeys employ their tails as an aid in swinging from tree to tree in journeying through pathless forests, and, of course, we all know that fishes are enabled to navigate in whatever direction by means of their tail fins. The ant eater raises his big bushy tail for an umbrella. The vanity of the strutting peacock is nourished by the beauty of its tail.

The Value of Dead Leaves.

According to tests recently made in France, dead leaves possess a higher value as fertilizers for the land than ordinary manure. They are extensively used by the market-gardeners about the city of Nantes. Pear leaves rank the highest in nitrogenous content, oak leaves come next, and the leaves of vines stand lowest in value. Experiments have shown that 44 pounds of pear leaves, 80 pounds of poplar leaves, 51 pounds of peach leaves, 82 pounds of elm leaves and 83 pounds of locust leaves are respectively equivalent in nitrogenous content to 100 pounds of ordinary manure. Vine leaves alone are less valuable than manure.

THE AMERICAN BEAVER RAPIDLY DISAPPEARING

Like the Indian, the beaver has been driven further and further from its old haunts by the sweep of civilization, and through Ohio, where they were once plentiful and infested every stream and lake, they have long since become extinct, and now they abound only in the thinly settled regions of Canada.

There are many who believe that the beaver is doomed to extinction. Evidences of its fast approaching extermination are seen in the decaying stumps, the broken dams and the deserted lodges along the upper waters of the Fraser and Peace rivers, which may be considered the last home of the patient animal, which for more than two centuries, contributed largely to Canada's most substantial advancement and stimulated enterprises and laid the foundation for strong commercial development.

The beaver, scientifically known as Castor Canadensis, is the largest of the fur-bearing rodents. Perhaps no animal in the world has been more widely utilized, for as a protection from cold the use of its pelt dates to primitive man. The rarest peltage is pure white, fawn and brown, sprinkled with silvery hair. Less than a score of such pelts have been found in an exportation of 100,000 skins. Black beaver are more abundant. Generally the color ranges from pale yellowish brown to chestnut. The body measures from 12 inches to three and a half feet in length and the paddle-shaped tail, covered with scale, is from 9 to 12 inches in length.

The external features of the beaver are among its chief characteristics, beginning with its wonderful teeth and ending with its perfectly unique tail. The incisor teeth are strong and well developed, and are set in a circular socket. The sharp teeth were used as cutting instruments by the Indians, who also attach much value to white skins, converting them into medicine bags.

The beaver's head resembles that of a rat, though the nose is flatter and makes the head appear shorter and broader. The eyes are dark blue and small in proportion to the size of the animal. They are highly convexed, thus enabling the animal to use them under water. The ears are small, quite round, and concealed in the fur and hair. When the peltage is prime, a shaggy, loose growth of long hair covers the head and body to the base of the tail, diminishing on the lips, eyelids, feet and legs.

The anterior feet are so dexterous as to favor comparison with the hands of the monkey. The creature uses them in building the dam and the lodge and for excavating the burrow. They are also used to convey the food to the mouth in a truly astonishing manner. Though the front feet are not usually employed in swimming, there is a perceptible web joining the third and fourth digits, which does not seem fitted for any apparent purpose, unless it might be to facilitate the handling of mud in the plastering of the lodges or dams.

The powerful hind feet, with the development of web extending to the extreme points, afford the ideal model for aquatic life. The large heel-pad and strong nails enable the animal when on land to stand upright firmly, a position generally assumed when at work. On the second toe there is a most remarkable double claw or nail, which apparently is only used for combing the fur.

The gait of the beaver is waddling and slow, owing to the shortness of its limbs and to the outward direction which is given to its heels to enable its feet more efficiently to fulfill the function of paddles in swimming. The toes alone of the anterior feet and the surface of the soel in the posterior are applied to the ground in walking.

The awkwardness of its appearance in this action is, moreover, heightened by the clumsiness of its figure and by the difficulty which it seems to experience in dragging after it its cumbersome tail, generally trailing upon the ground, though sometimes is slightly curved upward, and is occasionally moved in a direction from side to side. In the water, however, this member becomes highly useful, both as a paddle and a rudder, to urge it onward and to direct it in its course. A mature beaver weighs from 40 to 60 pounds and its life is from 15 to 20 years.

The animal prefers the northern side of the stream for the advantage of the sun, and, when possible, takes the bank of an island rather than that of the mainland, as it affords greater security from attacks.

Barmaids in South Australia.

South Australia is suffering from a barmaid famine. Two years ago barmaids were abolished in that State by act of Parliament. No more could be legally engaged, but those already employed could remain on condition that they registered themselves. There are now only 400 of them left, and the competition for their services was that their wages jumped from 25 shillings to £3 a week. The hotels that have had to employ barmaids report a considerable change for the worse in their receipts.—London Chronicle.

Opium Smuggled in Barrel Staves.

Through some clever work on the part of the customs secret service men 199 cans of opium hidden in the staves of barrels containing lamp blacking were seized and the would-be importer and his assistants were arrested. As the staves of the barrels were rather thick just in the centre instead of being hollowed, the smugglers had carved out a small sort of pocket large enough to contain a narrow can of opium in each stave. When the staves were set together it was impossible to see these openings.—Manilla Times.

WINGS THAT WERE FINS.

Evidence That Penguin's Pinions Were Once Used for Swimming.

Ornithological puzzles are the penguins with their curiously shaped wings suggest that the penguins are descendants of birds which used their wings rather than legs in the pursuit of prey under water, and as the struggle intensified between the competing individuals the most expert at this sort of swimming would get the most food and outlast their less successful rivals. The winners gained advantage over their neighbors in proportion as their wings improved as swimming organs, and inversely and of necessity became less suited to perform the work of flight.

In all other birds the feathers though shed annually are more or less gradually displaced; but in the penguins the new feathers all start into being at the same time and thrust out the old feathers upon their tips so that these come away in great flakes. Whereas in all birds save penguins the new feathers as they thrust their way through the skin end in pencil-like points, formed by investing sheaths, in the penguins these sheaths are open at the tips and attached by their rims to the roots of the old feathers, and hence these are held to their successors until they have attained a sufficient length to insure protection against cold.

The curious device for retaining the warmth afforded by the old feathers until the new generation can fill their places is apparently due to the fact that penguins are natives of the antarctic regions, although some now inhabit tropical seas.

A Rothschild Anecdote.

Baron Rothschild was once caught in a predicament that many people experience daily, and that is getting into a conveyance of some kind and then not having the money to pay the fare.

The driver of the omnibus into which Rothschild entered demanded his fare, and the Baron, feeling in his pockets, discovered that he had no change. The driver was very angry. "What did you get in for, if you have no money?"

"I am Baron Rothschild," explained the great capitalist, "and there is my card."

The driver scornfully tossed the card away. "Never heard of you before," said he, "and don't want to hear of you again. What I want is your fare."

The banker was in great haste. "Look here. I've an order for a million," he said; "give me the change." And he proffered a coupon for that amount.

The driver stared and the passengers laughed. Fortunately a friend of the Baron entered the omnibus at the moment, and, taking in the situation, immediately paid the fare. The driver, realizing his mistake and feeling remorseful, said to the Baron:

"If you want ten francs, sir, I don't mind lending them to you on my own account."—Buffalo Courier.

Electro-Chesical Colors.

The preparation of mineral and artificial organic colors by the air of electricity has recently made considerable progress, and it is suggested that the products of this new industry may eventually replace those derived from coal-tar. Among the colors now produced in commercial quantities by the employment of the electric current are vermillion, Scheele's green, cadmium yellow, Japanese red, cerise, or cherry red, Berlin green and zinc white, besides a number of organic colors.

The process consists essentially in sending an electric current through a solution containing the elements required for the production, by precipitation, of the coloring matter desired.

Sham Campaigns Ahead.

If nations want to do great army manoeuvres in the right way, why do they not conduct sham campaigns and battles into each other's territory? Thus Germany could invade France; France, Russia; United States, Canada. "But what if such an invader forgot to leave?" said M. Vautel.

Looks Very Like The End Had Come

BALKAN WAR OVER

Turkey Will Abandon Adrianople, Scutari and Janina.

London, Jan. 24.—The immediate consequences of the decision of the Turkish grand council to conclude peace with the Balkan allies will be the cessation of hostilities between Greece and Turkey and the surrender of the Turkish fortresses of Adrianople, Janina and Scutari. At all three fortresses the Turkish garrisons will withdraw with the honors of war.

Difficulties may arise concerning the fate of Scutari, as no one knows to whom it is to be surrendered, whether to the Montenegrins, to a provisional Albanian government or to the representatives of the powers.

King Nicholas of Montenegro insists that he must enter Scutari at the head of his troops.

All fears of a resumption of the war having been removed, the allies are now planning the withdrawal of large bodies of troops at an early date.

Another Door Open For Opium Smugglers

OPIUM FROM COLON

Plumber Arrested When He Attempts to Dispose of the Drug.

New York, Jan. 24.—Colon, as the surveyor of the New York port remarked, is one of the open doors for the smuggling of opium into this port, and there came from Colon by the steamship Prinz August Wilhelm at least 24 cans of the drug, which the venturesome ship's plumber, Ernest Pfeil, made an effort to sell here and was detected and captured by customs watchmen.

The plumber confessed that he had bought the opium in Colon, where the sale is unrestricted, and that he had paid $13.50 a can for it. On the preceding trip he had brought in 15 cans and on the trip before that nine cans. He had sold all the stuff to Kung Suey, laundryman, of Hoboken. Two inspectors went to Hoboken and arrested Suey.

The Home Missionary Society of Grace church will hold a rummage sale in the Williams property on North street next door to Dr. Rowe's office, on Tuesday, January 28th. Sale opens at 9 a. m. 19 2t the store and the weakened condition of the building is assigned as the cause. A special sale was taking place at the time, and the victims are chiefly women and children. The upper floor of the building was occupied by the local Odd Fellows' lodge. The structure in falling smashed the adjacent implement store.

There is small chance for any of those still buried in the debris to be taken out alive, but rescue work will continue until everything is cleared away.

Citizens to the Rescue.

The fire department and hundreds of citizens ran to the scene of the disaster and began at once to clear away the debris and drag out bodies. The big pile of debris of splintered timbers and piles of brick and concrete together with the flames made rescue work slow. The first body was not taken out until an hour later. A mother and her year-old infant were found dead with their arms around each other. Other women were found covering the bodies of their children.

The clerks who escaped from the department store say that the sale was at its height and that women were crowding around the counters. Suddenly the east wall creaked, and clerks and patrons gave it but momentary attention. Fifteen seconds later, however, both walls caved in upon them with a terrific crash.

Screams that arose from the throats of women were stilled by the blinding, crashing avalanche. Half-smothered groans, a rising pall of smoke and dust, and it was all over.

Doctors and nurses have been sent from adjoining towns. Many came from Dallas. There is a scene of frenzy and desolation here. Hundreds are frantically seeking wives and fathers and daughters. An investigation has been ordered. It is believed three of the employees in the Tingle establishment met death. T. M. Tingle, head of the concern, escaped, and he says three of his men were in the office at the time.

CUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

W. H. Chapman, Winnebago, Neb., tells how he did it. "My two children had a very bad cough and the doctor's medicines did them no good. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25c bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound."

A mean stuffy cold, with hoarse wheezy breathing is just the kind that runs into bronchitis or pneumonia. Don't trifle with such serious conditions but take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. Contains no opiates.

Stands Out Prominently Among His Brave Kind

A HERO OF HEROES

With Both Legs Severed, He Saves Life of Fellow Workman.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—Carl Edsburg is a hero of heroes. The fact that he is a hero only came out during the trial of his damage suit against the Baldwin locomotive works for damages for the loss of both legs. He was awarded $20,000 by the jury.

It was on Aug. 4, 1910, that Edsburg became hero. On that day he was working on a girder 80 feet in the air at the Baldwin shop. A traveling crane passed over both legs, severing one instantly and leaving the other hanging by a thread. For 30 minutes Edsburg lay stretched out on the girder, his comrades endeavoring to rescue him. As quickly as they tried they were overcome by the sight of blood. Edsburg regained consciousness during the ordeal.

George Shuman, one of his co-workers, attempted to rescue Edsburg. He fainted and was about to pitch to the floor, 80 feet below. With all his pain, Edsburg reached over and grabbed Shuman just as he was about to fall. He pulled Shuman to a safe place on the girder. Then Edsburg fainted.

New York, Jan. 24.—Lincoln Steffens, the writer, was the complainant in police court against an alleged pickpocket, caught while helping himself to Mr. Steffens' wallet. The prisoner says he is Charles Williams, but according to the police he is Harris Gold, who has served a term in Elmira. Williams was deeply aggrieved at some nonunion pickpockets, who took his $60 watch while he was trying to escape.

Trenton, N. Coax the jaded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistency and Nature's assistance.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets oil the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Take Olive Tablets mixed with olive oil and have no trouble with your bowels or stomach.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box.
